The length (more precisely, arc length) of an arc of a circle with radius r and subtending an angle θ (measured in radians) with the circle center — i.e., the central angle — is $s = r\theta$. This is because $s = r\theta$. Substituting in the circumference $C = 2\pi r$, and, with α being the same angle measured in degrees, since $\theta = \alpha / 180 \pi$, the arc length equals $s = r\alpha / 180$. A practical way to determine the length of an arc ...
